In 1959, a grant from the Commonwealth Government enabled the Western Australian Government to start work on the massive Ord River Irrigation Scheme, a bold plan to develop part of the tropical north for intensive irrigated agriculture. The project, however, has been plagued by delays, cost blowouts and planning problems and has fail to achieve economic success.

A nimalism is at once a bold metaphysical theory and a pedestrian biological observation. For according to animalists, human persons are organisms; we are members of a certain biological species. In this article, I introduce some heretofore unnoticed data concerning the interlocking interests of human persons and human organisms.
