The data was collected primarily through in-depth semi-structured interviews and corroborated by our observation notes and secondary data. Case access was negotiated through the company's CEO, which granted us an immediate "legitimacy and credibility" (Patton, 1990 p. 254). Since our aim is to understand FinTech in the case organization via concept discovery and to extrapolate outcomes in ...

In the People's Republic of China, the adulteration and contamination of several food and feed ingredients with inexpensive melamine and other compounds, such as cyanuric acid, ammeline and ammelide, are common practice. These adulterants can be used to inflate the apparent protein content of products, so that inexpensive ingredients can pass for more expensive, concentrated proteins.
