Grid computing is the use of widely distributed computer resources to reach a common goal. The grid can be thought of as a distributed system with non-interactive workloads that involve a large number of files. Grid computing is distinguished from conventional high-performance computing systems such as cluster computing in that grid computers have each node set to perform a different task ...

1. Introduction. Complex Network Analysis (CNA) is a relatively young field of research. The first systematic studies appeared in the late 1990s , , , having the goal of studying the properties of large networks that behave as complex systems. The research owes a great deal of its foundations to the seminal work on Random Graphs of Erdős and Rnyi , who studied asymptotic properties of ...
