A scale-free network is a network whose degree distribution follows a power law, at least asymptotically. That is, the fraction  $P(k)$  of nodes in the network having  $k$  connections to other nodes goes for large values of  $k$  as  $k^{-\gamma}$  where  $\gamma$  is a parameter whose value is typically in the range  $2 < \gamma < 3$ , although occasionally it may lie outside these bounds.

In the context of network theory, a complex network is a graph (network) with non-trivial topological features—features that do not occur in simple networks such as lattices or random graphs but often occur in graphs modelling of real systems. The study of complex networks is a young and active area of scientific research (since 2000) inspired largely by the empirical study of real-world ...

We show, via a massive ( $N = 689,003$ ) experiment on Facebook, that emotional states can be transferred to others via emotional contagion, leading people to experience the same emotions without their awareness. We provide experimental evidence that emotional contagion occurs without direct interaction between people (exposure to a friend expressing an emotion is sufficient), and in the complete ...

Malcolm Gladwell has written an interesting piece in the New Yorker, arguing that real social change occurs when strong, rather than weak-tie networks, organize hierarchically, rather than in a de-centralized network structure. His example contrasts the lunch-counter protests in Greensboro, North Carolina in the sixties with the low-stakes activism through social media.
